Opposed to Licensing Salcons.
"Is Licensing Right?" was the subject on which Mr. Edward J. Redmond addressed the meeting of the Father Mathew Total Abstinence Society last evening at the ball, corner 5th and G streets northwest. The speaker said: "The day has gone by for any one to argue seriously that the traffic in intoxicants as a beverage is right. An industry that is a benefit is encouraged and never restricted. No one thinks of compelling the grocer or clothier to pay a heavy fine for the privilege of seiling goods to the community. An increase in the number of such dealers is considered an advantage and never a menace to society. As a preventive of the business licensing is a failure. If an increase of the license fee has had any effect it has been solely to intreuch the traffic more securely—give it a sort of vested right to remain, and enable saloon keepers to say, "We have paid for our rights' and we insist on having them. As if a right could be bought! Rights are inherent and are not negotiable as articles of commerce." The speaker closed with a comparison, citing statistics to show that where local option existed building associations, churches and banks have taken the place in the business community formerly occupied by the saloon. Mesers Edwin Mullin and John E. Doberty also addressed the meeting and Miss Pauline Furlong recited in a graceful manner "My Sister's Beau." day has gone by for any one to argue seriously

One important clause of the bill follows: "It shall not be lawful for the Irish legislative body to adopt or pass any vote, resolution, address or bill for the raising or appropriation for any purpose of any part of the public revenue of Ireland, or of any tax, duty or impost, except in pursuance of a recommendation from her majesty, signified through the lord lieutenant in the session in which said vote, resolution, address or bill is proposed." address or bill is proposed."

CONSTABULARY CONTROL. The Dublin metropolitan police is to continue subject to the lord lieutenant for a period of five years, or until the Irish administration with guarantee that an adequate local police system has been organized.

The royal Irish constabulary, while it exists, is to continue subject to the control of the lord lieutenant, but the Irish legislature may pro-vide for the establishment and maintenance of a police force in counties and boroughs in Ire-land under the control of the local authorities, and arrangements may be made between the treasury and the Irish government for the establishment and maintenance of police reserves.

There is an entirely new clause, 22, which gives the crown the right to veto all bills of the Irish legislature, and gives Irish representative peers the right to sit in the house of lords at Vestminster and vote on all imperial que

Controversies regarding constitutional ques tee of the privy council for decision. The functions of the lord lieutenant are th same as in the bill of 1886 and the judiciary is to remain for five years under the control of the imperial government, then to pass under the control of the Irish government.

Other provisions are similar to the bill

The Cantilever Bridge to Be Built Over the Mississippi at New Orleans. President Harrison has just signed a bill which authorizes Chicago men to construct over Mississippi river at New Orleans the largest cantilever bridge in America. Surveyors and engineers will at once begin preliminary operations and within three years the $5,000,000 structure will be opened for traffic. The plan is one in which all the railroads in the south are interested and the contract has been given to Porthell & Karner, civil engineers of Chicaga

The bridge will have many stupendous dimensions. It must be built of steel with three unbroken and continuous spans between the river banks, as defined by a medium stage of water, and with two piers in the river. The length of the main channel span will be 1,995 feet and the two side spans will be 757 feet long. with the lowest part of the superstructure not less than eighty-five feet above the extreme less than eighty-five feet above the extreme high water mark. This will make the bridge itself but a few feet less than a half mile in length. The location of the bridge will probably be near Carrollton.

lant bank examiner, and would have defied detection even if the state had undertaken by experts to investigate its solvency for itself. am credibly informed the further investigation and examination of the record will disclose the fact that the state treasurer, Bartley, has been imposed upon, and that the certificates of deposit which were turned our to him by his pre-decessors in office were fraudulent evidence of money on deposit which had no existence. "It is impossible at this time to ascertain whether the failure of the bank will involve the state in any loss. The assets, however, of over $900,000, as represented by the books, together with the assessments, for which the stockholders are liable, furnish a reasonable guaranty that the state's loss should not be great ultimately. It remains for the legislature to take such action as it deems wise to ascertain the exact condition of the bank and to fix the responsibilities of the parties involved in the transaction. It is an open question whether the bondsmen of ex-Treasurer Hill were released when he paid over to his successor the fraudulent certificates of deposit and whether the new treasurer assumed any responsibility by reason of his assumption of office."
